ABOUT ANI

ANI Arrowhead Technologies delivers technology and operations support to federal agencies. We work where systems meet the day to day: emerging technology, cybersecurity, logistics, financial management, and program support. The focus is practical. Modernize what an agency runs, protect what it holds, and keep the supply chain moving.

CORE CAPABILITIES

Logistics & supply chain

Supply chain optimization, asset tracking and inventory, procurement coordination, lifecycle management, real-time visibility and reporting.

Emerging technology

Artificial intelligence and machine learning, automation and intelligent workflows, data engineering, cloud, digital modernization.

Cybersecurity & risk

Zero Trust and secure enterprise architecture, continuous monitoring and incident response, NIST RMF, FISMA and FedRAMP support, vulnerability assessment.

Financial management

Budget planning and execution, financial reporting and documentation, data-driven forecasting, compliance, audit support, risk monitoring.

Program & administrative support

Executive and operational administration, project coordination and meeting management, document development and records management, front office operations, workflow and process improvement.

WHY ANI

The whole chain. We work every link, from requirements and procurement through storage, distribution, transportation, maintenance, and returns. Most technology firms speak to one link.

Veteran led. Led by a retired Army Major and Certified Master Logistician. Operational discipline applied to technology delivery.

Technology tied to the work. AI, cloud, and security applied to the processes an agency actually runs, not technology for its own sake.

Direct access. A small business with short lines to leadership, fast decisions, and a simple contracting path.
